Daniel Craig in the latest 2015 James Bond film Spectre

THE GLACIER MODEL: A FRAME FOR JAMES BOND

Since first created in the 80s, Vuarnet's famous Glacier glasses have remained a symbol of performance and quality. Designed for the mountain peaks, these glasses were worn by the greatest mountaineers of the time who appreciated the unrivalled comfort and protection the glasses provided. Their success spread rapidly beyond the French Alps and the model has now seduced the most famous secret agent in history, James Bond in Spectre directed by Sam Mendes set to be released this winter. The unique and high-tech design of Vuarnet's Glacier glasses have made them a reference and a style icon.

Jerry Hall and Mick Jagger

THE 02 MODEL: THE TIMELESS ICON

The 02 model, contrary to what its name might suggest, was actually the very first model in Vuarnet's history. Designed and developed in 1957 by Roger Pouilloux, a pioneering optician, it played an important role in his friendship with famous skier Jean Vuarnet. Pouilloux, a great skiing enthusiast, offered the French champion the 02 frame in 1959 as a token of his admiration. It was while wearing this frame with the famous Skilynx glass that Jean Vuarnet won the downhill gold medal at the 1960 Winter Olympic Games. While the 02 model was and indisputably remains the reference for elegance on the ski slopes, it was quickly adopted as urban wear by such famous personalities as Romy Schneider or Mick Jagger who wore the 02 model around the streets of London accompanied by Jerry Hall.

Jeff Bridges in the film The Big Lebowski, 1998.

THE 03 MODEL: THE CALIFORNIAN SPIRIT

Launched in 1962, the 03 model is inspired by the style of US air force pilots with its straight lines and XL square shape. After Alain Delon wore the 06 model in La Piscine in 1969, Vuarnet again made its mark in the cinema in the late 90s in the film The Big Lebowski directed by the Coen brothers in Los Angeles with Jeff Bridges embodying Jeffrey Lebowski aka The Dude and wearing the 03 model. The 03 model is being revived in the wake of the success of this cult film. This autumn Vuarnet is re-releasing the famous frame to the delight of its fans.

Alain Delon in the film La Piscine, 1969.

THE 06 MODEL: HEAD FOR THE SUN

Its modern lines might give the impression that it is a new design that has joined the Vuarnet collection. However the 06 model, the sixth opus in the company's history, achieved legendary status in 1969, protecting Alain Delon's beautiful eyes from the luminous Romy Schneider in the film shot in Saint Tropez La Piscine. Since the release of this now cult film, the 06's streamlined silhouette has lost none of its splendour. Almost 50 years later, in the remake entitled A Bigger Splash, presented at the Venice Film Festival in September 2015, it will be Matthias Schoenaerts' turn to wear them on screen opposite the dazzling Dakota Johnson.

To mark the occasion, Vuarnet is rereleasing an identical version of its original design with the 1969 Limited Edition of just 169 models.
